Welcome! We hope you enjoyed your summer. If this is your first day, week or even hour here at Newcastle University, welcome and congratulations for achieving your place on your degree. It's great to have you on campus here in Newcastle.

The 2024 Newcastle University Induction course has been created to support you in your first few days, weeks, and months, as you settle into university life here in Newcastle. This content works alongside your school induction community. The central induction content has been split into 2 sections, essential content and a signposting guide.

- Essential Content – students are expected to read and complete all tasks on each page. You will be sent reminders from Canvas if you do not complete it.
- Your Newcastle Guide Content –each page contains signposting information for a different area of the University, this is designed to help you find support when you need it.

The Central University Induction module is open now and ready to take at any time. It is essential that you visit this module before you come and during your induction week as there are a few pages that are important to review within the first week or two.
